Uni Guide

University of Basel.

Foreword

Dear Students,

Congratulations on choosing to study at the University of Basel. With this Uni Guide, we want to welcome you to the city and show that you have made the right decision.

This brochure will make it easier to get started, allowing you to concentrate on your studies with peace of mind. The initial study period presents many questions: How do I get to grips with everyday student life? Where can I find an apartment? How much money do I need for my studies and where can I find a part-time job? As the best tips and tricks come from your fellow students, they will answer these questions themselves. Experienced students also know where the best places are to meet up after class to make the most of life outside the lecture hall – and Basel has plenty to offer!

I hope you enjoy our tips and I wish you every success during your time at our university.

Study

When you start your studies, there will be a whole pile of changes and you may find yourself feeling a little lost. To make sure this doesn't last too long, we have put together some tips.

However, the most important thing is initiative! Talking with your fellow students and asking your lecturers and student committees will make things much easier.

Tips for new students

“If you’re unclear about anything and feel lost initially, that’s completely normal and no reason to worry. You’ll quickly get used to the pace of the lectures and new material. It helps to get together in groups to go over what you have learned. Even a small coffee break and short walk between chapters can work wonders if you’re having a mental block while studying.”

Andjelka Antonjevic

Blogger at beast.unibas.ch
German and Mathematics

“Don’t just focus on earning credit points in your subject during your studies – make the most of the extensive academic program to attend extra-curricular courses that interest you as well. This will give you a good insight into other fields and help you learn new things that could come in useful in your own studies. And don’t be afraid to speak to the lecturers if you have questions – that way you can be sure you’ve understood everything.”

Start Smart Week: Start of program 2018

The university is pleased to officially welcome all new students to the start of the semester on the morning of Monday, September 17, in the Kollegienhaus at Petersplatz. You will have the opportunity to learn about the many services offered by the university, including university sports, the Language Center, career services and mobility programs, the various student organizations and Basel's cultural institutions. To ensure a smooth start for new students, first semester students can look forward to a wide range of introductory events during Start Smart Week. From Monday to Thursday, they can get more of an overview from a crash course on studying, to tours of the facilities including the University Library, and even from a bar tour through the city.

Global study

The University of Basel is a member of several networks that enable bachelor's students to spend a semester or year studying in Australia or the Midwestern United States. The University of Basel has also concluded bilateral agreements with various universities around the world that permit students to spend a semester or year abroad. The Student Exchange can help you organize this.

Swiss European Mobility Program

The Swiss government's SEMP program awards mobility and exchange scholarships. The scholarships allow students to participate in one or two exchange semesters or an internship at a partner university. To register, the student must have completed two semesters and received approval from their subject coordinator. The Student Exchange team at the University of Basel's International Office can help interested students organize their stay abroad.

Student checklist

In the first week of the semester, you should:

- ☐ Visit an introductory event
- ☐ Read your study guidelines
- ☐ Draw up a schedule
- ☐ Activate your student accounts
- ☐ Attend a tour of the University Library
- ☐ Buy a photocopy card
- ☐ Read the Beast Blog at beast.unibas.ch
- ☐ Like instagram.com/unibasel and facebook.com/unibasel
- ☐ Follow snapchat.com/add/unibasel

University market- place

Whatever you need, seek and you shall find. The University marketplace has everything imaginable – from jobs, to apartments, to car-sharing opportunities and offers of exchange. Many people even give things away. It's always worth looking to see what's available.

ABC of studying

Academic quarter-hour

The academic quarter is the time designated to allow students to get from one class to the next. Class times are generally specified as “ct” (cum tempore), which means that if the class is stated as starting at 8:00 am, it actually begins at 8:15 am.

C

Credit points

Credit points must be earned throughout your period of study. Generally, one point equates to around 30 hours of study. This system allows your university achievements to be calculated and compared with other universities around the world. But you won't receive these valuable points until you've passed the course assessment (exam, essay, presentation, etc.)

D

Dean's Office

The Dean's Office is the unit that runs a particular faculty. As a student, the most important place for you is the secretariat, as this is where your exams are organized and your degrees are awarded. Unfortunately, its opening hours are short and its queues are long.

F

Faculty groups

Faculty groups (FGs) bring together all students from a particular discipline and thus form the basis for the student representative body, Skuba, which represents your interests at department level, organizes events and looks after first-semester students. If you have any questions, they can give you first-hand tips.

G

“Green Holidays”

Some of you may find yourselves called upon to serve in the military during your studies – not exactly convenient if you've got an upcoming exam or an essay to write. To find out how to postpone your military service and where to obtain the necessary confirmation, go to:

unibas.ch/de/Studium/Beratung/Militaerdienst.html

H

Hiwi (Student assistant)

Academic departments are always busy places. Student assistants – or “Hiwis” for short – retrieve books from the library, scan, copy mountains of documents, and also get to take a peek behind the academic scenes. Working as a “Hiwi” is a good part-time job and allows you to make contact with key people in your department.

I

IT services

IT Services are responsible for your email address and VPN access to the university network (among other things). You can also download software here and borrow projectors. The Neptune project, which allows you to purchase laptops at a discounted price, is also very popular with students.

its.unibas.ch

K

Kids

The Diversity Office helps with matters regarding the compatibility of studies and family life. Once your child is born, the University of Basel day care service will be happy to help you continue your studies.

unibas.ch/diversity

unibas.ch/kinderkrippe

“If you don’t ask, you don’t get! The university has many service units that can provide help and support. Particularly in terms of finances, forward planning is useful to avoid making your studies more stressful. Social Services is happy to help students draw up a realistic monthly budget and overcome financial bottlenecks.”

Gaudenz Henzi

Head of the Social Services at the University of Basel

“Skuba dedicates itself to the needs of students at the University of Basel and represents your interests towards the university management, society and politics. For example, it is committed to give students a greater say in matters that affect them. It also offers various services and runs the Verso-bar in the basement of the Kollegienhaus. Anyone can get involved with and contribute to Skuba.”

Giuliano Borter
President of the Skuba
Studies Law

L

Legi (Student ID)

The student ID in credit card format – also known as a “Legi” – officially proves your student status. It allows you to take books out of the University Library and eat for less in the cafeteria. Your “Legi” will also get you discounts in many places outside the university – so be sure to ask!

M

MOOnA

MOOnA – which stands for “My Online Account” – is an online self-service portal at services.unibas.ch where students of the University of Basel can carry out administration related to their studies. You can use MOOnA to register for the transition to the next semester, sign up for courses, and update your contact details; your account also shows the credit points you have accumulated, as well as the courses for which you are registered.

services.unibas.ch

N

Numerus clausus

If there are more students than places on a course, then a numerus clausus is applied. At the University of Basel, a NC is used only for programs at the Faculty of Medicine. Unlike at other universities, applicants are not screened according to their grade in their school leaving examination. Instead, they must take a standardized aptitude test or an entrance examination.

O

Ombudsman’s Office

The Ombudsman’s Office is open to all students wishing to submit a complaint relating to university matters, provided that these do not fall within the remit of another unit. If conflicts arise during your studies that must be treated as confidential, you can contact the Ombudsman’s Office.

unibas.ch/de/Mitarbeitendenportal/Beratung/Ombudsstelle.html

P

Psychological support

Anyone can find themselves facing psychological problems. If it happens to you, please do not hesitate to seek help. The Student Advice Center is the first point of contact for students.

studienberatung.unibas.ch

R

Registration

You've passed your first semester and that longed-for break has begun. Despite your holiday mood, it's very important that you don't forget to register for the coming semester using MOnA. You will receive a reminder email from the university stating the period in which to register.

S

Services

At services.unibas.ch, you can edit personal data such as your name and address, and you can generate your timetable. The portal gives you an overview of all lectures and seminars and direct links to the ADAM distribution platform. It is also where you register for the next semester – note that the registration period ends after the fourth week of lectures.

T

Tutorials

Tutorials are classes in which the content of a lecture or seminar is explained and repeated in greater depth. The tutors are normally older students who can give you practical tips and advice.

U

University course directory

This lists all courses taking place in a department in the current semester, and not only states the time and location of a course, but also describes its content in detail. You can use the online timetable to create a list of your courses and transfer this to MOnA during the registration period.

Accommo- dation

Move out or stay at home? Commute or move to the city? And if so, where? Students choose their living arrangements for a wide variety of reasons. As in many cities, Basel's housing market is tight, so make sure to plan ahead of time for your search!

From near and far

“I still live at home in Germany, so commuting is part of my daily routine. While that can be tiring, it also has a lot of benefits. Since I live very close to the border, I can take advantage of Basel’s cultural offerings while maintaining the friendships I already have. And I don’t have any major financial worries, since I don’t have to pay for accommodation.”

Danial Chughtai

“I live in an old WoVe apartment in Basel with seven very different people. The wooden floor creaks and it gets cold in winter – but it was love at first sight. Once a week we eat together and catch up. There’s no place for boredom in our flat, so we always try to be as spontaneous and flexible as possible. Now I can’t imagine what life would be like without my seven dwarfs.”

At home in Basel

The Rhine divides Basel into two parts, Kleinbasel in the north and Grossbasel in the south. The city has 19 residential districts, each with its own special character. The Canton of Basel-Stadt also includes the municipalities of Riehen and Bettingen. Basel is an extremely popular place to live. But despite the tight housing market, it is possible for students to find attractive accommodation.

Gundeli

The Gundeli district is located between the platforms of the SBB train station and Margarethenpark in the south of the city. Although slightly further from the center and the Rhine, advantages for students include lower rents and a direct connection to the SBB station. The district has developed greatly in the last few years and is now known as the “city within the city”. Its good location, many shops and cafés and cultural diversity make Gundeli a lively and attractive place for students.

Grossbasel

Grossbasel encompasses the whole of Basel on the left of the Rhine and, with the old town, also includes the city’s historic center. Grossbasel’s direct proximity to many university buildings and its location in the center of the city are beneficial for students.

Kleinbasel

Kleinbasel is the area right of the Rhine. It is a very popular residential area among students, with lower rents than Grossbasel and a very active nightlife. The district's greatest attraction, however, is the Rhine riverfront, where Basel's residents spend much of their free time in the summer. Numerous "buvettes" (refreshment stands) between the different bridges and Dreiländereck (border triangle) invite you to while away the time.

Breite

The Breite district lies on the Grossbasel side in the east of the city. Part of the district sits directly on the banks of the Rhine and is particularly famous among students for the "Birschöpfli", the park in which the Birs flows into the Rhine. In the summer, this is a great place to lie on a towel and relax in the sun, taking an occasional refreshing dip in the Rhine.

Wettstein

The Wettstein district can be found in Kleinbasel on the banks of the Rhine. It houses the premises of the pharmaceutical group Hoffmann-La Roche and recently gained a new trademark with the Roche Tower, Switzerland's tallest building. The Wettsteinplatz transport hub provides very good connections to numerous tram and bus routes and to the SBB and Badischer Bahnhof train stations.

WoVe

Finding somewhere to live can prove pretty challenging for students, which is why we're lucky to have WoVe – the association for student housing. Ever since its foundation in 1970, the charitable organization has been renting and finding good-value accommodation for young people in education.

Managing Director of WoVe

How can I improve my chances of finding a room or a small apartment?

Over the past few years, apartments suitable for students have become increasingly rare in Basel. And the fact that many landlords prefer not to rent to groups of students has not made things any easier. Providing a rental guarantee can help. Otherwise, it's the same as applying for a job: be polite and look smart!

How do I look for an apartment via WoVe (the student accommodation service)?

You need to fill out our registration form and pay a fee. You will then receive a list of available properties. If you're interested in a room in a shared apartment, you'll need to contact the current tenants and they will decide whether they think you would fit in. WoVe will then draw up the rental contract.

What are the benefits of registering with WoVe?

We don't just make it easier to find a room, but cheaper too. A room in one of our shared apartments costs between 330 and 719 Swiss Francs depending on size and comfort level. On the regular property market, landlord profits always come first, but not at WoVe. We rent many of our properties via the foundation Wohnstiftung für Studierende, which provides student accommodation at low rates. We also often arrange accommodation in "temporary use" properties, such as buildings that are set to be renovated and are therefore empty. Properties of this type are ideal for students and are very cheap.

Work

For many students, earning money alongside their studies is a financial necessity. Others simply want to gain practical experience and enhance their CVs. Be it an internship, student job or student assistant position, combining work and studies is always a challenge.

Supplementing your budget

“In addition to my studies, I work part time for the news blog barfi.ch. What I really like about my job is that it gives me the opportunity to develop my practical skills as a complement to the theory I get in my studies. It also offers me a glimpse into the daily professional life of journalists, which will help me decide whether I want to continue this path in the future.”

Helena Krauser

“Next to my psychology studies, I work two jobs: On the weekends, I tend the bar at Manger & Boire and additionally have a part-time job in the harbor. I like the change of scenery. While I enjoy my everyday academic life, it is important for me to know and experience different realities, also in terms of work life.”

Internships

Participating in internships during semester vacations can help launch your career. They allow you to apply what you have learned in real life situations. You won't make a fortune, but you will be investing in your future.

Let's work abroad!

The international student network AIESEC organizes internships in companies and schools. With its global volunteering program, AIESEC also offers young people the chance to spend several weeks abroad working for a social project or organization, helping them broaden their horizons on a personal and professional level, put the knowledge from their studies into practice, and build up an international network.

Student jobs

Delivering food and packages as a bicycle courier, taking on night shifts in private care facilities or working as a student assistant in teaching and research: students in Basel have plenty of options to work alongside their studies. Many need to work to remain financially independent, while others want to gain practical experience during semester vacations. Whether and how much you can work differs from person to person and greatly depends on the phase of your studies, which may allow you to take on larger or smaller responsibilities. However, employers are generally quite understanding about fluctuating workloads and student budgets tend to be fairly flexible too. Nevertheless, combining work and studies remains a challenge. You can find good jobs at:

markt.unibas.ch, ronorp.net/basel/jobs

Student trainees

Some of Basel's largest companies (such as the Baloise Group) employ student trainees. In contrast to many other student jobs, these positions relate to what you are studying and the workload can usually be adapted to fit in with exams and semester vacations. Employers often support bachelor's and master's theses too. The best thing to do is consult the company's website directly.

Sirop

Researchers from all over the world use this online portal to publicize their internships, projects and vacant doctoral and postdoctoral positions. Students and graduates can perform targeted searches for interesting academic projects and submit applications online. The platform bridges the gap between academics looking for qualified workers and students wishing to take part in interesting research projects.

Career Service Center

So you've finished university – what next? The Career Service Center (CSC) will help you get your career off the ground. The CSC offers personalized careers advice, workshops, events and information to make it easier for our students to launch, plan and steer their professional lives. Good application documents and a professional interview are crucial to starting your career successfully. A detailed and intensive check-up will put your application portfolio under the microscope. If necessary, they can also help you to reflect on your situation and outline your prospects. To arrange an appointment, simply email csc@unibas.ch.

The CSC organizes a series of interesting career events under the label "meet&connect." At workshops and panel discussions students can meet directly with future employers. November 22, 2018 is a date you should already enter into your calendar. Starting at 6pm, the Long Night of Careers will take place at 13 Swiss institutions of higher education. The event features everything from interview training to style coaching.

Life

While it is crucial to get a handle on your studies, what happens outside the lecture hall is just as important. And this is what makes Basel the perfect choice: not only is it a great place to study, it's also a great place to live.

Away from the lecture hall

“UniGärten is the perfect place for anyone who likes to plant, sow, water and weed. Through our gardening, we make an active contribution to sustainability, and the fruits and veggies we grow give the project a concrete use. Courses and group work provide opportunities for further education and to use the garden for experiments.”

“Making music with others is incredibly fun. The university's orchestra offers the ideal opportunity to dust off your old instrument from back in school and meet a bunch of new people from different fields while you are at it. Traffic

The University of Basel's various sites are close together in the city center. The short distances are best covered using the well-established public transport system. The green Basel "Drämml" (or trams) are well known. And the "U-Abo" pass enables you to travel cheaply to the Frick Valley and into Germany. An even better option is to take your bicycle. Well-constructed cycle routes will get you from A to B in no time at all.

University Sports

From finding your inner balance through yoga, learning elegant moves in tango nuevo, to undergoing wildly romantic sea kayaking adventures and polishing your soccer skills, University Sports offers you a program of over 100 sports and body awareness activities. In addition to weekly training sessions from Monday to Saturday, University Sports organizes camps, weekend events, workshops, tournaments and offers consultations. Whether you're a beginner, an all-rounder or a top athlete, we have the right course for you.

If you prefer to train alone, you can take advantage of the modern 1,400-square-meter fitness center, which offers very reasonable prices for members. The center is run by a committed and professional team who will help you with your training.

Most training sessions are free of charge and do not require advance booking. If you do need to book in advance, please visit our website or the office. Some courses are very popular and quickly become fully booked. We recommend that you register as early as possible. As a student of the University of Basel, your student ID allows you to participate in University Sports activities. Remember to take it with you every time because cards are often checked at the entrance. The University of Basel Student Union (Skuba) officially represents the interests of students at the University of Basel. You automatically become a member when you matriculate. Skuba aims to ensure that the interests and opinions of students are heard by the university boards. It represents you and is committed to student co-determination, high-quality education and a study-friendly environment. In addition to student co-determination and representation, Skuba also works to create a diverse student life. As part of Skuba, you can be directly involved with the student council, and with boards and committees such as the senate and faculty assembly. To make life easier for University of Basel students, Skuba offers a range of services such as tutoring, legal services, and general advice and counseling. The Skuba office is a student coordination office that you can contact with questions about the university. Skuba also runs the Verso – the cultural center for students in the Kollegienhaus – where cool music, exciting events and great parties can help you leave the stress of uni life behind. The ground floor of the Lernoullianum offers various workspaces for students.

Unitheater Basel has offered students a cultural and artistic platform since 2013. Currently, it has two theater groups: Vincenzi and Primaten. The Vincenzi group works with longtime members and new faces at the same time. It puts on an annual production with professional direction and a small cast. In contrast, the Primaten group offers an experimental platform for theater enthusiasts who want to realize their own vision. For the 2018 spring semester, the group put on a successful production of "Schaulust," a freely interpreted version of Pirandello's "Six Characters in Search of an Author." The next production will be Eugène Ionesco's "Rhinoceros," performed by the Vincenzi group in the fall semester of 2018.

Finances

Alongside the tuition fees charged by the University of Basel, your studies will involve a few other expenses: books, insurance, rent and (of course) living costs. The following pages provide a guide to the types of costs incurred when you live away from home.

My budget

Compared to other Swiss cities, Basel is a relatively cheap place to live. The most important thing is to draw up a personal budget at the very start – this can save you a few headaches later on.

Scholarships: Where to ask

Switzerland has a decentralized system of scholarships, which means that each canton has its own rules and regulations. University education is essentially financed either by a student's parents and/or the canton in which the parents are eligible to pay tax.

Basel-Stadt

The Office for Educational Grants is responsible for the allocation of scholarships and loans to those eligible in the canton Basel-Stadt.

Insurance

When starting their studies, most people probably don't give any serious thought to insurance and leave their parents to sort out such tedious matters. However, it's high time you took responsibility to avoid any nasty surprises later on. The Social Services at the University of Basel can provide personal advice about insurance and has produced a useful leaflet on insurance tips for students, which is available at unibas.ch/sozialberatung

Students are essentially responsible for their own insurance. However, all students enrolled at the University of Basel are automatically insured (free of charge) against accidents resulting in permanent damage. All persons residing in Switzerland are obligated to take out health insurance. And with so many potential providers, you really are spoilt for choice. To compare the different premiums, visit comparis.ch.

AHV

As a student residing in Switzerland, you are obligated to contribute to AHV (old-age and survivors' insurance) as of January 1 of the year in which you celebrate your 21st birthday. The minimum annual contribution is 478 Swiss francs (as in 2018) and must be paid in full. So don't be surprised if an invoice from the compensation office drops through your letterbox. This can only be avoided if you have already paid the minimum amount, for example through deductions from the wages for your part-time job.

Support

To complete your studies successfully, you will also need to deal with many administrative matters and obtain information from various places. The University of Basel has a range of offices that can advise and support you on a wide variety of matters, from admission to your Unibas email address.

Student Administration Office

The Student Administration Office is a source of general information. If you have a question about admission, registration, matriculation, or semester registration, you've come to the right place. Some time ago, the Student Administration Office introduced a ticket system, so rather than walking straight in, you need to wait outside and take a number. However, many questions can be resolved without actually going to the office in person. You can use MOnA to change your address and register for courses, semesters, etc., online.

University Library

The University Library (UB) is probably the true heart of the University of Basel. It can prove somewhat confusing for first-semester students, which is why we recommend taking part in a tour of the library at the start of the semester. You are automatically registered with the UB through your "Legi", which allows you to make use of the library's services. By the time the exams arrive, things are in full swing here and sought-after group study rooms become increasingly rare. Coats, bags, and food items are not permitted in the UB; all items must be handed in at the cloakroom or stored in one of the lockers by the entrance.

Registration

Towards the end of the preceding semester, students and doctoral students already matriculated at the University of Basel (not newly registered students) receive an email at their Unibas address reminding them to register for the next semester. Registration takes place solely via the MOnA Web application.

Course registration

Course registration takes place online. The registration period begins on January 1 or August 1 and ends after the fourth week of lectures. Registering for courses is extremely important because if you do not register for your courses at the start of the semester, you will not receive any credit points for them.

Access to academic achievement account

To obtain an overview, you can use MOnA to access your account containing your academic achievements (courses completed successfully/unsuccessfully including grades, credit points and further details).
